

All Saints Craft Fair

Opposite Trinity College

All Saints Garden, set in a delightful corner of historic Cambridge, hosts a wide variety of local artists and crafts people who make the goods they sell. Now running for more than 35 years, All Saints Garden Craft Market is friendly and welcoming, selling everything from fine jewellery, pottery and sculpture, to photography, paintings, prints and clothing. You can talk to the artists themselves about the crafts they make and you may even observe them working there. The Market is held on Saturdays all year round, plus Fridays in June, July and August. It also opens Wednesday to Saturday in December (up to Christmas), weather permitting.

All Saint's Garden information:

- This friendly market, with the motto "We Make What We Sell" provides a very special opportunity to meet the artists and makers, discuss their work, and to buy unique products from the maker. To ensure that the character of this market is maintained only genuine Artists and Makers are permitted to trade. The market has 33 pitches and all goods are original and not mass produced.
- Traders must arrive no later than 9.30am and be ready to trade at 10.00am. Any trader arriving after 9.30am will be refused permission to trade on that day.
- The Council will provide a maximum of 2 wooden trestle tables if required.
- Traders will be allocated a 6ft frontage for their stall. Therefore frames over 6ft wide will not be permitted onto the market without prior permission. When traders arrive, the officer responsible for the market will allocate as appropriate any space that is not in use, providing no obstruction is caused to any other trader.
- Traders are required to return any tables/stall frames/stall boards used in the appropriate stack at the end of the trading day.
